Programme Summary/Details:

On October 13, 2020, UNICEF hosted the "Global Handwashing Day and My Responsibility" webinar, a significant online event aimed at raising awareness about the critical importance of handwashing and individual responsibilities amidst the COVID-19 pandemic. This webinar served as a global platform for disseminating essential information about proper hand hygiene practices to prevent the spread of the virus and emphasized the collective duty of people worldwide in curbing the pandemic. The event featured expert speakers who provided insights into the science of effective handwashing, reinforced the need for personal hygiene in combating COVID-19, and showcased various initiatives and best practices from around the world. It successfully united a global audience, emphasizing that, especially during these trying times, taking the simple yet powerful action of handwashing is not just a personal responsibility but a collective commitment to protect public health.
